GRANNIES JAILED FOR PASSING GAS IN MUSEUM

By LAUREL BOWN

Cantankerous grannies Catherine Lax and Emma Wahl were browsing through their favorite art museum when stuffy security guards grabbed them and hustled them off to the hoosegow — for passing gas!

"We just couldn't believe it," said flabbergasted Catherine, 80. "A couple of little goof-ups and they hauled us off like common criminals."

The windy widows have filed a $75,000 wrongful-arrest suit in the case, but museum bosses are fighting back — claiming the old gals' attacks of flatulence were ruining priceless works of art.

"We'd warned these women time after time, and finally we decided we simply had to do something about it," said curator Claude Pillet.

"The kind of gas they were releasing into the air contains outlaws that run out away at our paintings, disorder them and eventually cause them to disintegrate.

"It may sound like a joke, but it's not. You'd find that museums around the world are starting to crack down on patrons who sashay around breaking wind like it's going out of style."

The outraged oldsters admit they'd been admonished before for passing gas in the Condorcet Museum outside Paris, France. But the indignant art lovers insist they were arrested on disorderly conduct charges simply because the guards didn't like them.

"Catherine and I enjoyed visiting the museum after lunch, and we're old ladies, so sometimes we'd have a little accident," said embarrassed Emma, 79.

"The first time it happened, one of those big bruisers came shuffling over and told us to mind our manners. So Catherine told him to go play with his gun, and after that they followed us around like we were a couple of naughty schoolgirls.

"Anytime we had a little slip-up, they believed it on purpose. Like we're supposed to be proud of it."

Harried prosecutors quickly struck a deal with the livid ladies, dropping the charges in exchange for their solemn promise to steer clear of the stodgy museum for the next five years.

"We hate to tell anybody to stay out of the museum, but these two women were just too much," said the frustrated curator.

"Besides posing a very real threat to our irreplaceable paintings, they made life miserable for any other patron who got caught downwind from them.

"People with that sort of problem should go right straight home after lunch — not blast their way through a museum."

SHE'S SUING: Catherine Lax is asking for big bucks.

"SOMETIMES WE'D HAVE A LITTLE ACCIDENT," said Emma Wahl after getting into hot water with museum guards.

Windy widows told: 'You're wrecking our paintings!'

Farmer wowed by bald calf

Rancher Manuel Garcia was shocked and amazed when his prize cow Maria gave birth to a bald calf!

"The calf is white as snow and doesn't have a hair on its body," said Garcia of San Javier, Venezuela.

"I've never seen anything like it. My veterinarian was shocked, too."

The rancher said the calf is prone to sunburn since it has no hair to protect its hide.

"I guess I'll have to keep it in the barn or rub it down with suntan lotion," he added. "My wife and children are really attached to the calf and would kill me if I let any harm come to it."

Skydiving fetus makes 225 jumps

Fearless Cathie Schlitzer loves skydiving so much that while she was pregnant with her son she made a whopping 225 jumps!

The Indiana daredevil said that when she and her husband Mark decided to start a family there was never any question about continuing to jump.

"Skydiving isn't a hobby, it's my life," says Cathie, who firmly believes that continuing to skydive while expecting was beneficial. She not only had an easy pregnancy but John — now almost 3 — is fearless.

Surf king catches last wave

Surf king John Widenmann had a heart attack and died while catching a wave at the ripe old age of 72!

"A classic place for the dude to go," said surfer Todd Roberts, 25, of Spanish Beach, Calif.

Widenmann started surfing in 1930 and was both a legend and a fixture on California beaches. His body was cremated. His ashes were scattered on Spanish Beach.

Scientist discovers amazing

MAGNET POWER!

Dr. William Philpott found that magnets work miracles!

Put 'em under your pillow — and wake up FEELING GREAT!

By SUSAN JAMISON

You can live longer, healthier and happier, a top scientist says — by using the power of a simple magnet to heal and energize your body while you sleep.

Just two 6-inch-long magnets placed under your mattress each night can have astounding effects, according to Dr. William Philpott of Choctaw, Okla., reversing aging, bolstering the immune system and curing everything from AIDS to heart disease.

"This is a whole new area in medicine," the well-known psychiatrist and researcher says. "You can control the electrical activity of the brain with magnets for great benefits without side effects. I am a psychiatrist, I have studied more than 3,000 patients and I know what I'm talking about."

Research shows that sleeping regularly with two magnets under your mattress can:

- Cure heart disease, AIDS and cancer
- Fight infections
- Remove body toxins
- Fight stress
- Prevent respiratory problems
- Reverse aging
- Reduce anxiety and prevent depression
- Increase sex drive
- Boost energy
- Improve sleep
- Ease arthritis
- Reduce inflammation
- Eliminate pain
- Bolster the immune system and heal injuries

And it's so simple anyone can do it, the researcher says. All you have to do is get two bar magnets six inches long or more with the positive (south) and negative (north) poles clearly marked on them.

To use the magnets, just place them under your mattress at the head of your bed, four inches above where your head rests when you sleep. Turn the magnets so that the negative poles point toward your body and space them about 10 inches apart.

"All the organs and systems in the body are dependent on the constant presence and influence of magnetic energy," says Dr. Philpott, the author of several books on brain chemistry.

"By using the magnets regularly while you sleep, you can ensure that you feel well, look terrific and live a longer, healthier life."

NOTE: If you cannot find 6-inch bar magnets where you live, you can order two magnets for $9.50 from Editorial Scientific, 103 E. Gloucester Pike, Barrington, N.J. 08007-1388.

YOU can get up every morning looking like a million bucks, thanks to the power of magnets!

How Chinese take care of the old folks

Chinese authorities have hit on a unique way to make sure old folks are taken care of — they make their children sign contracts promising to treat them like royalty until the day they die!

In a typical contract, a 31-year-old man agrees to give his elderly mother the biggest room in his house, cook special meals for her and take her for regular medical checkups.

The contract also stipulated that he would provide her with a color television and "never make her angry."

As one official put it: "China has a long tradition of respect for the elderly but we are beginning to see instances of neglect."

The contracts should help the situation because they are legally binding, he explained.

Eggs will make you SMARTER!

A top research team delving into the mysteries of the human brain says eating eggs will make you smarter and will even reverse senility.

In what is being hailed as a landmark medical breakthrough, researchers at the famed Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel have isolated an egg extract which prevents the damaging buildup of fat deposits on brain cells.

Miracle ingredient renews brain cells, scientists say

By DICK GOODYAR

The miracle ingredient contained in the extract can be obtained by eating eggs. Over a period of time, it allows the brain to rejuvenate and function at its fullest potential, thus making it possible for humans to become smarter than they would be otherwise.

In effect, the egg ingredient — in addition to fending off and reversing senility — will increase a person's intelligence, said Dr. David H. Samuel of the Institute.

The miracle extract, called "active lipid" has also been found to stop — even reverse — the brain-aging process that leads to crippling senility in the elderly.

The lipid extract is now awaiting approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for an intense pilot study at three major medical study centers in New York, Michigan and California, before going on to further study at the Harvard University Medical School.

Active lipid was extracted from the yolk of eggs by Dr. Samuel and fellow scientists Dr. Meir Steinitz and David Keren.

The extract appears to overcome the buildup of cholesterol deposits on brain cells, which damages the brain's ability to store and retrieve information, said Dr. Samuel, director of Weizmann's Center for Neuroscience and Behavioral Research.

Dr. Samuel and his team discovered that the delicate membrane linking the brain's cells becomes rigid as a result of cholesterol buildup.

"At one time, we thought that eating eggs added appreciably to serum cholesterol levels," Dr. Samuel said.

"But we now know that the body makes cholesterol in such enormous amounts that eating eggs should be of concern only to those individuals who have trouble digesting fats.

"Active lipid appears to fluidize the (cell-linking) membranes so that oxygen and various brain chemicals can penetrate from cell to cell.

"With what we know today, it should be easy to add five or six useful years to the brain without too much difficulty," Samuel declared.

Volunteer firemen set blazes for sex kicks, expert says

Three young firemen accused of setting up to 14 fires that caused $200,000 damage may have done it for some kind of bizarre sexual pleasure.

"It's not an orgasmic treat where you need a cigarette," said Dian Williams, president of Arson Research Inc. of Philadelphia.

"It's about power. Sexual performance equals power. Male sexual behavior is aggressive. It's powerful."

Males who feel impotent or powerless rush out and say, "I did this all alone," she said.

Kenneth Nesarch, 18, James D. Garlick, 22, and Roland Oatman Jr., 23, were arrested on arson charges and are awaiting grand jury action.

All three are volunteer fire fighters in Mount Holly, N.J., who are accused of setting fires in curbside leaf piles and torching a sawmill, causing about $200,000 damage, cops said.

"They told police they were bored and started fires so they could be heroes and put them out," said Kirk Smith of the fire marshal's office. Most of the fires were set between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. Cops saw them running from the scene of the sawmill blaze and caught them, according to Smith.

Investigator Ron Horstman said the suspects may have just wanted to show off their fire fighting skills.

"When they are sitting around the firehouse, they hear other guys telling their war stories. They want to show that they know what to do," Horstman said.

HEY LADIES! MR. FUZZY-WUZZY WANTS TO MARRY YOU!

By REBECCA SPALDING

Human fur ball Jackie Johnson isn't much to look at but he's in the market for a wife — and vows to give the right woman $100,000 to marry him!

"I'll give the woman of my dreams a fortune to spend or save as she pleases and treat her like a queen to boot," said Johnson, 43, of Los Angeles.

"But don't get me wrong. I'm not desperate. The lady I walk the aisle with has to be special.

"Glamour girls, airheads and bimbos are out. I want a compassionate gal who enjoys the simple things in life — quiet evenings at home, walks in the park, church on Sunday, a loving, caring husband and someday, if we're lucky, a couple of cute little kids underfoot."

Johnson was born with a rare genetic defect that caused a thick coup of hair to sprout all over his body, including his face, hands and feet.

He said he never seriously considered marriage until he retired from a carnival last November.

Weary of spending his nights and weekends alone, he joined a singles club and started going to bars but still couldn't find the down-to-earth kind of woman he's looking for.

He also placed an ad in a singles magazine but found that the ladies who responded were "gold diggers and model-types who didn't know the meaning of the words 'commitment,' 'love' and 'marriage.'

"I've got a nice home, money in the bank and a deep desire to make the right woman happy," said Johnson.

"Who knows? Maybe that woman will read about me and get in touch. Stranger things have happened."

GENTLE SEA COWS

By CARLA BUSUMA
Special correspondent

A floating beer bash came to a horrible end for five boozers when their small boat was capsized and sent to the bottom of the sea — by an angry herd of manatees protecting their young!

Five of the drunken hell-raisers — three of them women — drowned when their 20-foot skiff sank just 200 yards from the shore.

A lone survivor, 37-year-old Hector Lopez, was found the following morning, clinging to a beer cooler that had carried him four miles out to sea.

"If we hadn't found him, we never would have heard the stunning story of what happened," declared Lt. Alfredo Santos, skipper of the Honduras Search and Rescue boat that plucked Lopez from the Caribbean Sea.

Interviewed in his apartment in Cabo Camaron, Lopez, a Mexican-born fisherman, recounted the bizarre events that led up to the startling manatee attack that claimed the life of his companions.

Lopez identified the victims as Rafael Martinez, owner of the boat; Jose Bello, Magdalena Bosco, her sister Rita and Lopez' bride-to-be Analisa Cardenas. All were in their late 20s.

"We just went out to celebrate my engagement to Analisa," Lopez explained.

"We were to be married in four days. One minute she was alive and happy, and the next minute she was dead — gone from my life forever.

"It is all Rafael's fault. There were a bunch of manatees in the bay and he just kept running the boat into the area where they were feeding with their calves.

DROWNING VICTIMS: Analisa Rosco, left, and bride-to-be Analisa Cardenas. They never knew what hit them, says the only man to survive the incident.

"He said he wanted to 'chop them to pieces' with the boat's propellers. Rafael is a mean hombre when he drinks too much. And he got very drunk that night.

"I guess we all did.

"Rafael kept running the boat back and forth, looking for the herd.

"On one pass, we all felt a thump on the boat bottom and Rafael roared with laughter because he knew, as we all did, that we had hit a manatee.

"Finally, Rafael stopped the boat. We just drifted on the outgoing tide. We were

ATTACK BOOZING BOATERS

SEA-GOING PARTY was turned into a trip through hell by marauding manatees.

Five drowned by mad manatees protecting their young laughing and drinking and having a good time.

"I had just put my arm around Analise when the bow of our boat rose high in the air.

"As I was flung into the sea, I saw two large manatees lifting the boat with their huge bodies.

"Analise was torn from my arms.

"That was the last time I saw the woman I love alive. She didn't have to die. That's the shame of this thing.

"A beer cooler floated near me and I managed to grab it. The manatees and their babies were all around me, but I soon drifted away with the tide. In the morning, I was found by the patrol boat."

Docs don't follow their own advice

Doctors don't practice what they preach when it comes to regular physical checkups and don't tell patients how to live healthy lives.

Because of these failures, doctors help perpetuate the nation's high death rate from cancer, pneumonia and other preventable hazards.

These are the findings of Dr. Charles E. Lewis, a professor of internal medicine at UCLA, who surveyed thousands of American lawmakers.

"If you have a physician who has bad habits, he is highly unlikely to challenge your bad habits," said Dr. Lewis.

Fidel's fast food joints popping up all over Cuba!

Castro selling burgers made from earthworms!

CASTRO'S latest wormburgers 1000 juicier than ours because earthworms make up 90 percent of the meat!

HE'S CUBA'S version of Ronald McDonald! Dictator Fidel Castro is shown in an artist's conception as he hawks his hamburgers.

By LAUREL BOWN
Staff writer

Dinghat dictator Fidel Castro has opened 50 state-run hamburger joints in Havana, but the burgers featherbrained Fidel's frying up are only 20 percent beef — and 80 percent ground earthworms!

Insiders say the kooky Cuban kingpin wouldn't be caught dead wolfing down a wormburger himself. Instead, the Big Mac-gobbling bag of wind has all his burgers flown in — fresh — from a Miami McDonald's!

"The taxi spends thousands of dollars a week to have his favorite hamburgers whisked in from the United States, while he's secretly feeding his people slimy old worms," fumed former Castro confidant Armando H. Peraza.

"I know there'd be rioting in the streets if folks knew what they were eating every time they chomped into one of those big, juicy sandwiches.

"It's really a rotten trick to play on all those trusting citizens."

Angry Armando, now living in exile in Mexico City, said his former boss got a notion to make nightcrawler burgers while bolting down Big Macs and Quarter Pounders in his high-falutin Havana mansion.

"He was sitting around watching his favorite old Wheel of Fortune tapes and feeding his face when he started grumbling about how Cuba ought to have more burger joints for the people to hang out in," said the ex-Castro crony.

"But he said it would be a shame to waste all that expensive beef on the working stiffs, and he figured it would be so much cheaper just to feed them earthworms.

"They'd never know the difference, he said — and he thought that was real funny."

The pestilential potentate spent the night crawling around on his hands and knees in his garden, rounding up dozens of the icky critters for his wormburgers.

"The next morning he had the cook grind them up, mix them with a little beef and cook them up," Armando recalled. "They made hamburgers out of them, and then everyone on the staff had to eat one.

"Everybody ate one but Fidel — and the people who knew what they were eating almost threw up."

But Castro's chickenhearted aides smacked their lips and assured their cantankerous boss his new hamburgers were heavenly. So the tickled tyrant tossed up 50 restaurants around the country and began peddling the beastly burgers for about a buck apiece.

"So far the wormburgers are selling like hotcakes," astonished Armando told reporters. "But Cubans aren't crazy.

"They're going to find out that Fidel's been feeding them nightcrawlers along with the bull he usually dishes up — and then he'll have to turn his burger joints into bowling alleys."

Kiddie cartoon ends with porno surprise

A grandmother was shocked and outraged when she discovered the animated kiddie cartoon she bought for her grandchildren had an added attraction — a 10-minute porn flick!

A judge in Edinburg, Tex., has ordered stores and the U.S.-based manufacturer to stop selling the toy in packaging stating it's "just for kids."

The porn flick — titled Squeal of Fortune — followed the kiddie film and shows 10 minutes of explicit sex between a man and woman.

Wacky hypnotist tells California woman to act like a dog . . . and she bites his ear off!

An unidentified woman was hypnotized into thinking she was a pooch — like this one all dolled up with a wig and glasses.

By RICK TRACY
Correspondent

A quack hypnotist commanded a young woman to act like a dog while in a trance — and she bit his ear off.

"She growled, showed her fangs and leaped across the hypnotist's desk," said Police Sgt. Tom Williams. "She went for his throat but got his left ear."

Animal control officers located the woman hours later hiding in a dumpster three blocks from the hypnotist's office.

"The poor thing was crouched in a corner and partially covered by old newspapers and garbage," said animal control officer Sid Turner. "She bared her teeth and snapped at us before we restrained her.

"The hypnotist's ear was hanging by a thin piece of skin. Surgeons feel confident they can reattach it because paramedics got him to the hospital so quickly."

The 28-year-old woman had gone to the hypnotist because she had been attacked recently by a German shepherd that had made her deathly afraid of all animals.

Apparently, the hypnotist recommended to her by a friend was not licensed in the state of California because of a sexual abuse charge involving another patient under hypnosis in Indiana, said police in the Los Angeles suburb.

"He was trying to have a bit of fun at her expense and it apparently backfired," Sgt. Williams said. "He made her think she was a dog. She immediately recalled the experience with the German shepherd and attacked."

The unidentified woman has been admitted to a psychiatric hospital for treatment. "We've given her a sedative to calm her down," said Dr. Frederick Allen. "I can't stress enough the inherent dangers in fooling around with a person in a hypnotic trance," he said.

Dr. Allen recalled the case of two women from London, England, who suffered adverse reactions severe enough to require months of psychiatric treatment.

The public furor over that case prompted the British Parliament to pass the British Hypnotism Act of 1952, which limits public displays of hypnosis.

"We should be sorry that people under hypnosis are susceptible to suggestions and may feel that all personal curbs on their behavior have been removed," said Dr. Allen.

GUN DUEL OVER '53 CORVETTE

2 men arrested during shoot-out for rare car

Car fanatics Peter Ulmer and Dieter Knopf wanted to buy the same classic Corvette so they settled the matter like gentlemen — with a duel at 10 paces!

By DALE BROWN

Ulmer was wounded in the incident and both men were charged with assault with deadly weapons.

But they say they would do it all over again because '53 Corvettes are not only beautiful, they're almost impossible to come by.

"Damn right I'd do it again," said Knopf, 42.

"The car was in mint condition — there wasn't a scratch on it.

"You don't find jewels like that often and when this Ulmer guy tried to buy it out from under me I wasn't about to take it lying down.

"Push came to shove and we wound up in a duel."

The mind-blowing drama unfolded at the Rare Auto Auction Center in Leesberg, Germany, on January 19.

Knopf and Ulmer started bidding on the classic white Chevy sports car. And when the price topped $62,000, Ulmer allegedly told Knopf: "Keep your mouth shut or I'll blow your head off."

Knopf reportedly told Ulmer that he was "pretty handy with guns, too."

In their statements to police, the men couldn't recall which one first mentioned a duel.

But somehow they forgot all about the Corvette and found themselves back-to-back in the parking lot with guns in their hands.

"We took 10 paces, turned and fired," said Ulmer. "He grazed my arm but it was no big deal.

"I aimed him completely but I would have killed him if I could.

"I was aiming for his head."

Police arrested the men before they could fire again.

THE first Chevrolet Corvette rolled off the assembly line in 1953 and is a big hit with car enthusiasts today.

Snow fort tragedy

A 7-year-old boy suffocated when the snow fort he was building collapsed on top of him!

Another boy was with Paul Gelstrup when the snow fort fell but couldn't dig him out in time, a Clark County sheriff's spokesman in Medway, Ohio, said.

JFK & GRACE

EXCLUSIVE!

LOVE IN HER EYES: Princess Grace with the young President at the White House in 1961

Revealed for the first time — the affair of the century

JFK and Princess Grace of Monaco succeeded in keeping the most torrid love affair of the century a secret — until now.

"The world knows all about Jumping Jack and his dazzling array of Hollywood honeys," says a palace insider in Monte Carlo.

"And the world knows all about Grace and her yen for powerful leading men, but Jack Kennedy was the love of Grace Kelly's life," says the insider, who spoke to The NEWS after being assured her identity would never be revealed.

"Jack and Grace were fire and ice. They could rendezvous wherever they could — the White House, Air Force One, off the Riviera coast, she was waiting for him sure in the backseat of the presidential limo, wearing nothing but a dark coat, for Lady's sake!" The Pres and the Princess took outrageous chances and got away with them. The media in those days had a tendency to blink whenever the Commander-in-Chief got randy, which was most of the time, according to reports.

"The Secret Service knew about the affair, of course. They had to coordinate shenanigans for the red-hot lovers who just happened to be heads of state," said the insider.

"Grace's code name was Filigreeplus and the relationship was called Operation Here We Go Again. They gave the secret agents the with their wild doings. But when Kennedy was killed some thing died in Grace, too." — Special to Weekly World News

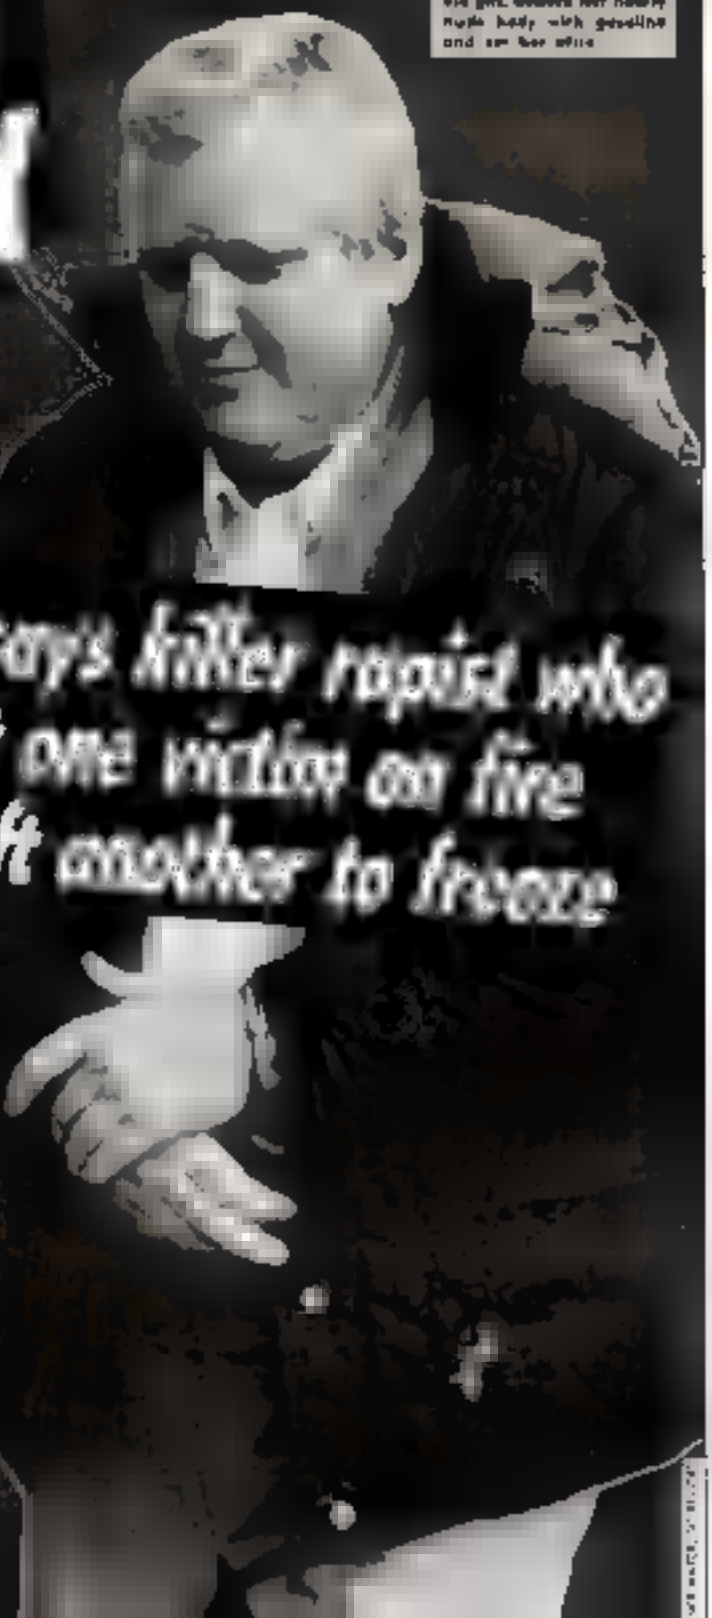
I'M REALLY A NICE GUY



IN his latest attack, murderous monster Murray Gartion raped a 15-year-old girl, dousted her nearly nude body with gasoline and set her afire

. . . says killer rapist who set one victim on fire & left another to freeze

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

A sadistic sex fiend who left one victim naked and dying in a frozen field and set fire to a pretty teenager after brutally raping her claims he "is really a nice guy."

But Murray Gartion's new prison chums may not agree with his assessment of himself. "Cons don't like guys who pick on women or children," said one cop.

Gartion, a 39-year-old welder with a college degree in math, has been sentenced to life in prison for the brutal 1987 murder of Heather Cowe, 15. the daughter of a woman he was living with.

The burly bachelor attacked the unsuspecting teen in the basement of her mother's home. After raping Heather, Gartion smothered the helpless girl, doused her nearly nude body with gasoline and set her afire.

"Normally I'm a nice guy . . . not aggressive in any way, sexually or physically," Gartion told cops after his arrest in Kitchener, Ontario, Canada. "I'm just a loving, caring guy. But when I get into that psychotic state, I'm a maniac."

Gartion had been out of prison less than a year when he torched the petite teen. He had just served nine years of a 14-year sentence for beating another rape victim to die in the snow.

The murderous monster had pleaded guilty to attempted murder in 1977 in what was called one of the most shocking sex crimes in Manitoba's history.

He raped, choked and left a helpless, 23-year-old unconscious woman to die in a snowy field in subfreezing weather.

After raping the woman, the sleazy creep realized he could either go to jail, or he could destroy her and not get caught.

"I executed the final and desperate phase," he said later.

Gartion strangled the victim and, when he realized she still had a pulse, tried to sever her jugular vein with a broken bottle. Before he could successfully finish her off, Gartion said he was scared away by an approaching truck.

up as the worst crime in Manitoba that I can recall," said Kris Stefanson, who prosecuted the case.

"It's just a horrific offense. To leave somebody naked out in a blizzard is just such an incredibly cruel and inhumane act."

"It's a shame we don't have the death penalty in Canada because if anyone deserved to die, he does," said a detective who worked on that case.

"Hopefully, the other prisoners will make his

A Geneva mother accidentally discovers the secret to losing weight without dieting

A simple "trick" helped her to lose 6 pounds a week

You too, she says, can easily succeed without medication or exercise. And full details are all yours FREE.*

GENEVA - There are many methods and diets that are more or less successful in helping you to lose weight. But do you know anyone who has lost all those excess pounds, at a rate of 6 pounds a week, by eating practically [illegible] without dieting, using medication or exercising?

I do. Mrs. Danielle Chevalier, a Geneva mother, did it. Her secret? She discovered it by accident.

I interviewed Mrs. Chevalier to find out her secret.

Question - Mrs. Chevalier, tell me how you did it?

Answer - Like many other women, I gain weight very easily. When I found out that this weight gain was unhealthy and that I was becoming less attractive to my husband, I began to worry.

I tried everything from starvation diets to cutting down on food, but they only made me ugly and run-down and the few pounds I had lost in 3 months, I gained back in 3 days.

One day, I read in a homeopathy book, where a doctor stated that anyone could lose weight easily and without being deprived of food. His advice was so simple that, at first, I didn't believe it.

Question - But you tried it anyway?

Answer - Yes, but later on. Exactly 5 days after I tried it, I fit into a pair of pants that I hadn't been able to wear in a long time. I told my friends about it. They all laughed. They didn't believe me when I told them that I wasn't on any diet and that I could eat as much as I liked.

Question - And you continued

Answer - 19 pounds in all. Look at me now. I feel better, my husband finds me attractive and my children are proud of me.

Question - Can your "secret" work for other women?

Answer - Many of my friends did the same thing I did. They lost 5 to 6 pounds a week.

Question - Can you summarize your "secret"?

Answer - Certainly. You can get a full, detailed "Discovery Summary" by mail, that with no obligation to buy anything.

- Everyone can use it instantly.
- It doesn't include any medication, starvation or diet.
- It's pleasant, [illegible] good for your health.
- It helps the digestion (that's one of the reasons it helps to lose weight).
- It works at the restaurant or while traveling.
- No restrictions! You can eat pasta, cakes, candies, drink wine or alcohol. And you will lose 5 to 6 pounds a week!

Question - Does that mean that nutrition is not important?

Answer - Well, yes. For example, I learned that certain foods worked like medicine but without the inconveniences. I talk about that in my report. It's very important. I also talk about a lot of other things that I have learned, through personal experience and which will be available to anyone who asks for it. That's great, isn't it?

How to get Danielle Chevalier's "Discovery Summary" now?

You'll see why you can lose at [illegible] a week until you reach your ideal weight with the utmost ease. It's risk free for you. She'll even give you her 10-day weight "success guarantee." Complete details are given in her free "Discovery Summary."

You can find out even if you are curious because you don't lose a cent!

READ THIS ONLY IF YOU ARE HESITANT ABOUT SENDING FOR YOUR SECRET NOW:

1. You are under no obligation. Your "Discovery Summary" is yours to keep, given to you absolutely free, with the compliments of Danielle Chevalier.
2. You can eat whatever you want and as much as you want and still lose at least 4 pounds a week.
3. You be the Judge. Review the documented material in the privacy of your own home. No charge!

Mail the complimentary coupon today. This way you won't have a re-neglect to get your free copy.

Free surprise gift

Mail the Complimentary Coupon within 5 days and you will receive a special personal opportunity to get a small but rewarding surprise gift. This gift will be yours to keep.

GUARANTEE

Your requesting Danielle Chevalier's "Discovery Summary" places you under no obligation whatsoever. However, it does offer you the way to start losing all your excess pounds and remain slim thereafter all on a guaranteed basis with no catch-22s and no questions asked.

You never saw The Beaver parked in front of the TV!

Today's fat & lazy kids need a swift kick in the keister!

I'm madder than a nerd with a busted calculator over a new study that shows American kids are the fattest and most disgusting bunch of couch potatoes in the history of the world.

Seventy percent of our boys and girls can't do a single chin-up, for crying out loud! Forty percent of the boys and 70 percent of the girls are pooped after a single push-up. Forty percent of the boys can't even touch their toes and 25 percent of all kids can't do one sit-up!

Let's face it, folks. That's so pathetic it makes me want to throw up. I could do 100 pull-ups when I was in the third grade, for Pete's sake!

What our little invertebrates need is a swift kick in the keister, if you want my opinion.

What makes me so pig-sick is the real shame of the flabby, spineless boys in whose fat hands are our future Marines and fighter pilots going to come from? Not from some fitness-nerdy athlete who barely have enough muscle to press the button on a remote channel changer by gosh!

What this country needs is a national boot camp for these fat crybabies where we can turn our kids REAL mean and scream, 'What? Are you a girl?' at the strangest moments to protect any great kind.

Whatever happened to those great American kids like on Leave It To Beaver where The Beaver and his brother Wally were always on the go?

How many times did you see The Beaver watching the tube, huh? None. I'll tell ya that's how many.

He was always thinking fresh or helping his dad Ward Cleaver ride the horse or something.

And that's what we need to do today, folks. A bunch of Beavers who'll grow up into lean, mean fighting machines who look like Rambo instead of Rambo Barr.

WHATEVER happened to those active kids like Wally and The Beaver on Leave It To Beaver? They were always on the go

Psychic parrot helps man win lottery

By LAUREL GOWIE

Elated shoker Frankie Flores won a whopping $3.5 million lottery jackpot — using numbers suggested by a pesky parrot!

And now, flabbergasted Frankie is so convinced his feathered friend is psychic that he's vowed to let the squawking birdie make all his decisions for him.

"That parrot must know something," said the wide-eyed retiree. "He's made a complete mess out of me — and he's going to make me even wealthier before he's through."

The easygoing grampa struck it rich shortly after he inherited the yakking parrot named Chico from an oddball old lady who lived next door.

"She was always talking and squawking," gray-haired Frankie, 74, told reporters in Madrid, Spain.

"But he was Elvira's best friend, and I promised her I'd take good care of him when she was gone.

"She had a little age on her window and gave psychic readings to earn a few pennies. But she insisted Chico was the real psychic in the family — that he gave her all the answers.

"I always figured that was just one more of her crackpot notions."

But just days after doing Elvira Calmes final and cherished hair, Chico moved in with Frankie, the parrot's constant jabbering had paid off in spades.

"The very first night I had him, he kept squawking the numbers 'seven, seven, seven,'" Frankie recalled.

"But he had seven quarters that he kept saying over and over again — 11, 16, 23, 34, 38, 45. And it seemed so strange to me because it came right out of the blue. I'd never, ever heard him calling out numbers before.

"I really couldn't afford to play the lottery much, but those numbers were on my mind and I thought just this once I'd give it a try. And two days later I was living like a king."

More than, fat cat Frankie's moved out of his three-room shack and into an 18-room mansion in the swankiest section of the city.

And his pampered parrot is living in the lap of luxury, with his own room, his own 25-inch TV set — and his own heart-shaped, golden birdcage to splash around in.

"Chico's my buddy now, and nothing is too good for him," says his adoring owner. "I'll be going into business for myself pretty soon, and he's going to be making all my financial decisions for me.

"And the next time that bird starts calling out numbers, you'd better believe I'll do

Save a bundle — avoid these money mistakes!

By REBECCA SPALDING

Eight common money mistakes can cost you plenty — but you can put yourself dollars ahead by following these easy tips, [illegible] financial planner.

Lawrence Krause, author of Sleep Tight Money, lists the mistakes and ways to avoid them:

● Not having a will. Don't assume that your spouse or family will get everything if you die, because laws are different in each state.

● Not having an IRA. Even if you earn too much to get a tax deduction, an individual retirement account lets your money grow tax-deferred until you retire.

● Not paying off your credit cards. It makes no sense to keep money in a checking account earning 5 percent interest when you could pay off card debts charging 18 percent interest.

● Not having savings. Without a nest egg, you may have to get a high-interest loan in an emergency.

● Not involving your spouse. If only one person in your family handles all the money matters, finances could turn into a disaster when that person dies or is hospitalized.

● Buying expensive items with features you don't need.

● Not updating homeowner's or renter's insurance. If you bought your policy a few years ago, you may not have enough insurance to cover a fire or theft.

● Delaying action. Nothing will happen while you're thinking about making a change.

Sea of love

Zookeepers hope they have found a way to get a pair of monkeys in a more romantic mood — they got the critters a water bed.

The bed was custom-made and shipped to the zoo in Bern, Switzerland.

"People can joke all they want, but we want these monkeys to breed," said monkey expert Dr. Ulrs Studer.

A study in Canada revealed that university professors receive little or no training in teaching techniques.

With few exceptions, "none of the professors at Canadian universities are qualified to teach primary or high school" reviews, said an education expert.

KIDS GROW HAIR ON THEIR TONGUES!

NEITHER Rebecca, age two, nor brother Stewart was born with a hairy tongue, says their mom Joanne Bachmann.

By ROSE GRADY

The two children of Joanne and Stewart Bachmann look pretty much like other kids their age until they open their mouths — and stick out their furry tongues!

The Bachmann kids — Stewart Jr., 7, and Rebecca, 4 — have abundant growths of thick, glossy, black hair on their tongues, a bizarre condition that has baffled doctors on both sides of the Atlantic.

"They've been examined and tested by a dozen specialists and none could provide the slightest clue as what's causing the hair to grow," their dad said from the Bachmann home near Dortmund, Germany.

"Neither child was born with a hairy tongue. It didn't start with Junior until he was 6. But Rebecca started before she was a year old.

"At first, Rebecca caused us great embarrassment. We warned her not to open her mouth in public. When she did, she looked like a cat spitting up a fur ball. People would stare at her in horror.

'If we shave it off, it comes right back,' say parents

"You have no idea how humiliating it was for Joanne and me. In desperation, I once threatened that if she opened her mouth in public again, I'd have her jaw taped shut. I felt like a fool."

But with the passing of time, Stewart and Joanne's embarrassment slowly gave way to the loving compassion every good parent feels for a child that's "different."

"The neighborhood children poked fun at them and I felt so sorry for them. Once I even tried to shave Junior's tongue. My God! It was awful! The poor boy couldn't eat for a week. And the hair grew right back.

"We learned to accept our children's extra adornment as something special . . . like a beauty mark," Joanne said. "When you think about it, tongues are not very pretty to look at.

"But no matter. I think my little darlings are the most beautiful children in the world with their magnificent furry tongues. I don't care what anyone else thinks!"

Listen to your car: The sounds it makes will tell you what is wrong

By MARTHA ATKINS
Staff writer

If your car is screeching, thumping, squealing or snapping, it may be trying to tell you it needs service. So to help you figure out what's wrong, the Car Care Council has put together the following list of common car sounds and what they mean:

● Thumping from a tire. There may be flat spots in the tread due to poor wheel balance or alignment. It could also mean tread separation, which could cause a blowout.

● A squeal or screech when you hit the brakes. The brake linings or pads may be worn and need to be replaced.

● Knocking or pinging when you step on the gas. It could be from using low-grade gasoline or your car may need a tune-up.

● Snapping. If you raise the hood and hear a steady snapping that speeds up as the engine runs faster, a spark plug wire may be loose or starting out.

● Clicking. If you hear clicking when you turn on the ignition but the car doesn't start, your battery may need charging or replacing.

● Whining or howling when you accelerate. You may need transmission fluid.

● A whirring sound when your car won't start. Your starter drive — necessary for getting the engine going — may need repair.

Petite lady cop tackles 260-lb. suspect

A burly 260-pound bruiser who used to carry the ball for the University of Colorado football team was chased down from behind by a petite San Francisco policewoman — and tackled!

"Talk about losing your dignity," laughed Lt. Bruce Maravich, Wilma Brown's commanding officer.

"This guy had a head start, he was wearing sweatpants and running shoes and Wilma was wearing a bullet-proof vest and carrying a gun — and she still nailed him."

It's a weird, wacky world — these trivia gems prove it

BIZARRE

Americans are among the most curious people in the world. They gobble up facts and figures faster than a freeloader at a banquet. So say the psychologists.

But despite our vast knowledge, The NEWS has gathered a few fabulous facts that may still be relatively unknown. But they won't be anymore.

It is a fact that . . .

● Eskimos use refrigerators — to keep food from freezing!

● The human brain stops increasing in size at around the age of 15. It weighs about three pounds.

● The exhausted messenger who ran the first marathon — 26 miles, 385 yards from the battle of Marathon to Athens in 490 B.C. — brought great news for his rulers: "Rejoice. We have conquered." Then he dropped dead.

● Moles can dig underground as fast as they can walk above ground.

● The warmer the weather, the more actively a cricket chirps. If you count the number of chirps a cricket produces in 14 seconds and add 40, the answer will give you the temperature.

● Llamas can wiggle their ears one at a time.

● All of Israel's 800,000 cows have ID cards!

● There is about 18 square feet of skin covering the average human body, enough to cover a single bed. Humans shed their skin constantly and replace it with a completely new outer layer every 28 days!

● The average airline stewardess' nose is 1.78 inches long.

● All polar bears are left-handed — or left-pawed, if you prefer.

● There have been only 230 years of real peace in the civilized world in the past 3,600 years.

● The adult human body is 60 percent water. It also contains enough phosphorus to coat the heads of 220 matches, and enough iron to make a one-inch nail!

● All the tea in China amounts to around 317,000 tons.

● The man with the largest name in the world was Adolph Blaine Charles David Earl Frederick Gerald Hubert Irvin John Kenneth Lloyd Martin Nero Oliver Paul Quincy Randolph Sherman Thomas Ulysses Victor William Xerxes Yancy Zeus Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorff Sr. He was born in Hergenhorf, Germany, on Feb. 29, 1804 and later moved to Pennsylvania. His last name was an abbreviation of the full surname, which had a total of 500 letters. Friends called him Mr. Wolfe. • 500 Sr.

● Everyone knows that the figure 1 followed by six zeros is one million. But how many know that a 1 followed by 18 zeros is a quintillion, and a 1 followed by 30 zeros is a nonillion?

● The average human cell stores enough energy to light a 100-watt bulb!

● Newborn penguins are so small that 20 of them will fit in a teaspoon!

● Droplets from a sneeze have been measured traveling 100 m.p.h.!

● The human body takes about 48 hours to digest the food from one meal.

● The world's fastest wasp takes three minutes to travel across a 3-foot plate of glass at a constant speed of 60.720 m.p.h.

● If all the blood vessels in your body were stretched out and placed end to end, they would be 100,000 miles long, long enough to wrap four times around the Earth!

● The safest hour of the week to drive a car is noon Sunday. The most dangerous hour is just nine hours earlier, at 3 a.m.

● There are more ash workers on Earth than any other creature — at least 45,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000!

● The more shrimp a flamingo eats, the pinker its plumage becomes!

● There are more insects in a square mile of Earth than there are human beings on the entire planet.

● Birds eat an average of 50 times their own weight each year.

● It takes 1/10th of a second to blink your eyes.

● The average distance between a grasshopper's knee and its foot is ½ inch.

● Lewis Carroll, author of Alice in Wonderland, used to write standing up!

● The folks in Finland have more saunas than cars!

● Mayonnaise is a great moisturizer say skin experts.

● A dozen rats squeeze through a round hole that you can't shove a dime through.

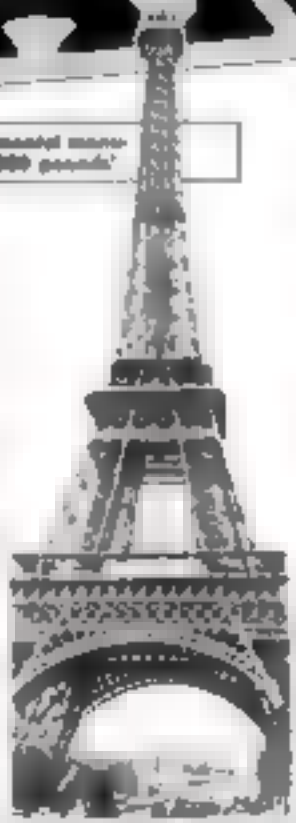
● The Oxford sparrow sings while flying!

● Male moths outnumber females 3 to 1!

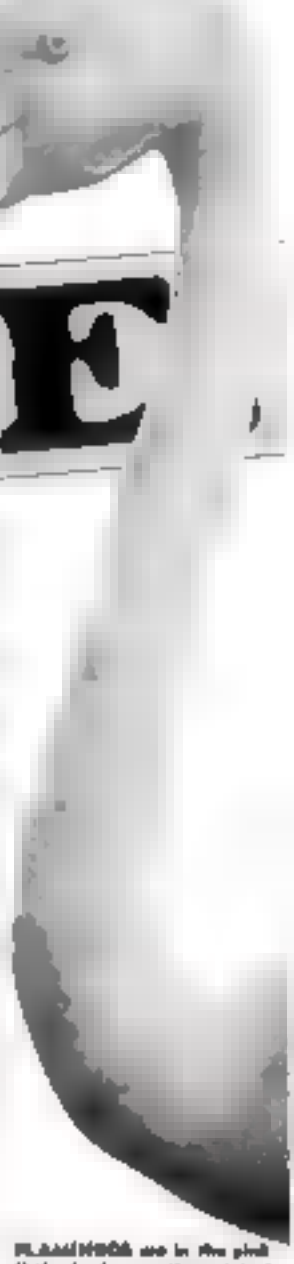
● In England, the Big Dipper is called the Plough. In France, it's called the Casserole!

● The number of words contained in an average half-hour TV newscast would scarcely less than one page in The NEWS.

Now you know.



The Eiffel Tower is a weight-supported monument — it weighs 14,000,000 pounds!



FLAMINGOS are in the pink if they've been eating a lot of shrimp — the more shrimp they eat, the more colorful they get. And birds eat an average of 50 times their own weight each year.

He's fallen and he won't get up!

A cranky 87-year-old man died after spending four days lying injured on the floor while ordering his wife not to call for help.

"He kept on saying he was all right and that he didn't want me to call the ambulance," said Myrtle Kristiansen. "I have to watch myself around him because he is quite a temper."

The bizarre tragedy began when Kristian Kristiansen fell on the garage of his home in Hobbsy, Fla. Mrs. Kristiansen said her husband tripped on a rug in the garage and fell down the steps.

"I heard him yell and I went to the door and saw him lying there," she said. "I went to help him up but he wouldn't let me touch him. He said he was all right and that he didn't want me to call the ambulance."

Mrs. Kristiansen said she went into the house but he wouldn't get any further than the hallway floor.

"I wanted to call the ambulance right away, but had to wait," Mrs. Kristiansen said. "When he wouldn't open his eyes or talk to me, I thought that this was the chance to call for help."

After her husband lost consciousness, Mrs. Kristiansen asked a neighbor to call for help. Kristiansen was rushed to a nearby hospital, where he died a short time later.

Creep leaves pretty victim dying on the tracks

Mugger pushed [redacted] under subway train — for one lousy buck, say cops

By MARTHA ATKINS

A coldhearted mugger shoved pretty Grace Cheng to her death under the wheels of a subway train — to steal her purse containing just $1!

The 31-year-old waitress lost her fight for life 12 hours after the grisly incident in downtown New York City. Doctors had labored for five hours to reattach her leg.

Authorities arrested suspected killer Brian Lawrence, 30, shortly after the vicious attack.

"I can't believe I'm in all this trouble for only a $1 bill," the arresting officers said Lawrence told them.

The tragedy occurred as the E train pulled out of the 50th Street station.

As grabbed the woman's purse and during the struggle, she was pushed under the train, said police spokesman Al O'Leary. He said all through the brief struggle, leaving the victim trapped.

Brian Lawrence

"She was pinned between the train and the platform. When the train pulled out she was dragged for some distance and struck a pole," he continued.

"That poor woman lost her life for $1, the price of a subway token. It's tragic. The only bright spot is she didn't get away."

Transit cops Tony Garofalo and Donald Mounts heard Miss Cheng dying in a pool of blood.

"We were able to identify Miss Cheng and link Lawrence to the crime through the wallet," said O'Leary. "He's a career criminal," he added.

Lawrence has been charged with second-degree murder, first-degree robbery, first-degree assault and criminal possession of stolen property.

TRANSIT cop Tony Garofalo holds the dollar bill that cost pretty Grace Cheng her life.

We're fuming because our 7-year-old smokes in bed

Dear Dotti

AMERICA'S MOST OUTSPOKEN ADVICE COLUMNIST

[redacted] daughter started smoking and even though my husband and I scolded and grounded her and took away her telephone, stereo and allowance, she kept it up. After weeks of fussing and fighting we gave in and told her she could smoke.

But now, Dotti, she's decided that it's cool to smoke in bed while she's talking on the phone! My husband and I are afraid she's going to burn down the house but when we ask her to stop, she laughs in our faces. Help us, Dotti. How can we get through to this girl? — Desperate in Westchester

Dear Desperate: If you don't want your [redacted] daughter to smoke in her bed, give it to the Salvation Army — and make her sleep on the floor like a dog!

Son doesn't know he's illegitimate

Dear Dotti: I've been burdened with guilt for over 20 years. It's all because I cheated on my husband and got pregnant when we were younger and told him that the baby was his. We had two other children — both his — but I never told him the truth about my brother-in-law. My husband is dead now so I'm not worried about him finding out. But I feel like I should tell the rest of the family just to get rid of my guilt. Help me, Dotti. I need your advice. — Guilty in New York

Dear Guilty: Telling the truth wouldn't accomplish anything at this late date. Save your firstborn son the anguish and turmoil and unpack and keep your big fat mouth shut!

Confidential

Dear Kristal in Illinois: I didn't say you were an idiot — I said you were a fool!

Dear Loverboy in Big Pond: I don't care what the girl told you — there's no cure for AIDS!

Dear Disappointed in Alabama: If I were your boss I would have fired you YEARS ago!

Dear Furious in Oregon: Drop dead!

Dear Sagesgirl in Virginia: Say what you like — body weight/fibers are sick!

Dear Proud Mom in Montana: Don't be a girl scout. Any kid who's failed the seventh grade four times WON'T be making straight A's!

I just can't help eating like a pig

Dear Dotti: I'm 60 pounds overweight and want to slim down but I simply can't stop eating. Doughnuts, eggs, bacon, steak, hamburgers and gravy, pancakes and milk — that's what I usually eat for breakfast, always. I'm a poor woman, Dotti, and can't afford to go to one of those fancy weight reducing resorts in the farms. Can you give me some encouragement? I'm at the end of my rope. — Patty in L.A.

Dear Patty: Some people were destined to be big fat pigs and you're obviously one of them. So go ahead and eat, pig, or Things can't possibly get any better!

My wife's turning me into a woman!

Dear Dotti: My wife is trying to turn me into a woman! Over the past few months I've been losing my body and facial hair. My skin has gotten softer. My voice has gotten higher. Even worse, I'm sprouting breasts. I have a feeling that my wife is putting estrogen in my food or drinks. What can I do, Dotti? I don't want to be a woman but I'm afraid to confront my wife — She-man in Illinois

Dear She-man: You should have written to my weekly psychiatrist. Judging from the tone of your letter, you're already a [redacted] — and a wimpy one at that!

How can I stand up to my landlord?

Dear Dotti: I'm thinking about getting a pet python but I'm afraid my landlord won't approve. How can I approach him? His name is Mr. Nash. — Down in Kentucky

Dear Down: Anybody who calls his landlord "Mr." isn't mature enough to own a pet. Grow up kid! When you can call Mr. Nash by his first name you'll KNOW how to approach him and ask

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is! Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462

MAN SWAPS BIMBO WIFE — FOR A BOWLING BALL!

By RICK TRACY

Bowling nut Andy Jenik used his best buddy's bowling ball one night and liked it so well, he swapped his wife for it.

"My wife was a bimbo, anyway," said the burly bowler. "She never stops yakking long enough for me to get a word in. So it was no big surprise to me that she agreed to the trade."

Andy's bowling average had dropped from 190 to 170 in the space of weeks when he borrowed teammate Jason Rubinstein's ball fingering ball one night.

He bowled the lights out for a solid week, averaging 203 in three different leagues in upstate New York. "I must be on Wrong," he said.

When Andy asked him pal what he wanted for the ball, Jason replied jokingly, "How about your wife?"

"I thought he was kidding but he wasn't," said the hefty hubby.

"My wife Anna jumped at the chance and the deal was made.

"Leaving Anna was no great loss. She had grumped at me for spending the night and doing her nails," said Andy. "She was good in bed but got on a lot of other people's nerves."

Andy and Anna had lived as a fish for five years ago and got hitched after the third date. She wouldn't go to work and couldn't cook. Her idea of a big date was opening a box of deluxe macaroni and cheese dinner," said best pal Andy.

The swap didn't take long. Anna packed up and moved in with Jason the next day. "I always thought he was kind of cute," she giggled.

Anna said her hunky husband always treated her like an equal. "I was more like his chum than his wife — except, of course, in bed."

"I didn't mind sharing the sack with him," she added. But Andy shuddered and shaved when he felt like it, and had warts very often."

As there seem to be happy with the trade Andy's average is up to 230. Jason can't keep anyone and he doesn't care what Anna does all day as long as she's there when he gets off work.

widow ze-dries dead hubby

She keeps corpse at home — propped up in an easy chair!

By SCOTTY PAUL
Special correspondent

Heartbroken Harriet Spencer couldn't bear to be without her beloved hubby, so when he died she had him freeze-dried — and now she eats meals and watches TV with him as though he were still alive.

"Jack was everything in this world to me. We were married 25 years. I couldn't imagine a life without him," said Harriet, 49, of Phoenix. "Now he can be with me always."

Harriet and Jack had promised each other years ago that whoever died first would be freeze-dried in a special vacuum chamber that removes water from tissues and preserves flesh for up to 150 years.

Within hours after Jack suffered a fatal heart attack, his body was flown to a tanderm at who specializes in freeze-drying as he and his wife had planned. "Two weeks later, he was back home here with me," said Harriet. "It is almost as if he never left."

Jack was freeze-dried with his legs crossed and his hands folded on his knee with his familiar pipe in his mouth.

The bizarre preservation process made his body lightweight and easy to move.

"Our life-style hasn't changed much since Jack died. We still relax in the living room at night watching our favorite TV programs," said Harriet.

There comes a day the devoted wife carries her dead husband — whose freeze-dried body weighs only 27 pounds — into the kitchen for meals. "It gives me comfort just knowing he is there," she said.

A photographer who shot the accompanying photos said it was "bizarre" seeing a frozen corpse sitting in an easy chair.

"He reminded me of the wax figures in the Hall of Presidents at Disney World — only with Jack didn't have," said the photographer.

"He sits in his chair most of the day. At night, Harriet tucks his corpse into a comfortable chair beside her bed."

Jack's favorite pipe tobacco is on a table next to his easy chair. "I keep it fresh," said Harriet.

Harriet won't say where the freeze-dried process took place, who did it or how much it cost.

"We saved through the years but even that wasn't enough when the time came," Harriet said. "In fact, I had to go into considerable debt to make this happen!

"The people who preserved my precious husband did no harm to anyone.

"I would not want to get them in trouble," she said.

"I know some people think I'm batty for keeping my dead husband around and perhaps I am," Harriet said.

"But we never had children — only each other."

ABOVE: Spencer's freeze-dried body keeps widow Harriet company — even when she eats.

DEAD WEIGHT: Freeze-dried corpse is shown propped against a wall during a routine housecleaning. This unique preservation process makes the body lightweight and easy to handle once his wife.

BIZARRE! Everyone looks happy and natural in this photo of Jack and Harriet Spencer, but she's alive — and he's dead.

THE PRINCESS is happier days. The loving couple promised each other that whatever died first would be freeze-dried.

Cops bust boozers for breast-feeding

Two young mothers got nailed by the cops for breast-feeding their babies while they were drunk.

Prosecutors in Bethel, Alaska, later dismissed the charges against the women, saying there is no conclusive medical proof of danger to children and breast-feeding.

SURVEY REVEALS:

Women at 50 America's HOTTEST sex symbols

There's nothing over-the-hill about today's woman in her 50s — the lady's at the prime of her life and she's just become America's hottest new sex symbol.

Some of the world's most sought after beauties have reached the Big Fifty: gorgeous gals like Raquel Welch, Jane Fonda and Sophia Loren. And there are just the best-known of a whole generation of fabulous females making its mark this decade.

These women are sophisticated physically fit and — according to a fascinating new survey — still eager to live. Here are some of the things they revealed about themselves in a poll conducted by a Michigan newspaper:

● Four out of 10 women between the ages of 50 and 55 say they've had [illegible] but never been better [illegible] as it had always been — thrilling.

● Of the women surveyed, 35 percent reported making love at least twice a week and 15 percent said they enjoyed sex at least once a week.

● Almost 25 percent of women said they'd been given attention by a much younger man.

● Over 10 percent actually had love affairs with men younger than they.

● Of the ladies who had at least younger men, 33 percent confessed that what they really searched for was a young, firm body.

Many said physical traits were responsible for [illegible].

● A shocking 43 percent of married women said they found their bodies a turn-off to bed.

● The most difficult period during married women was their male's paunchy belly.

● Thirty percent of the women polled said they married too young.

"A woman who married young and had children young may well find herself in middle age searching for her lost youth and the fun she missed," said Dr. Diane Wilson, a Michigan psychologist.

"So she may want to [illegible] her old mate for a much younger one."

The best news of all to come out of the survey: More than 60 percent of females all their lives will find life gets better as they get older!

TIME TRAVELER VOWS . . .

'I'll go back to 1977 and save Elvis'

By SHEILA KEARNS

A far-out physicist is building a time machine so he can return to the 1970s and save Elvis Presley's life!

Dr. Jon Mark is a self-described maverick in the field of molecular physics and a lifelong fan of The King. He still hasn't gotten over the performer's tragic death on Aug. 16, 1977.

And while many scientists believe that time travel is an impossible dream, Dr. Mark is confident he'll find a way to return to the past and save Elvis — or die trying.

"I've never been more sure about anything in my life," said Dr. Mark, whose studies and theories of time are considered to be standards in the field.

"I'm going to build myself back to 1977 and when I get there I'll find Elvis and change his destiny. If I'm successful people will wake up one morning to find that Elvis is still alive."

It may be hard to imagine this frail, bespectacled scientist as the hero of a rock 'n' roll fantasy, but Dr. Mark is deadly serious about his mission.

He says he plans to publish an article on the project in Astronomical Journal and even a manuscript titled "Elvis Lives!" is already circulating in the scientific community.

Dr. Mark's colleagues say the physicist may well succeed in his quest, but they question whether it's worth the risk.

"Dr. Mark is a brilliant man, but his motives — to save Elvis Presley — are absurd."

The physicist himself says his critics "are not supposed to see what I'm doing, or why I'm doing it."

Partners who don't spend some time apart from each other often end up either fighting or escaping from the marriage, say experts.

Psychologist-author Dr. Pittsburgh Dodson and psychotherapist Dr. Norton F. Kruty gave these tips on how to avoid too much togetherness:

● Recognize your partner as an individual who's allowed to have separate interests. For many fishing or football are examples, wives can enjoy even cheers or ballet with their

● When you feel the need to be alone, speak up. Don't be afraid to tell your spouse you'd like some time to yourself.

● Go places together, but do your own thing when you get there. For example, if a husband enjoys fishing while on vacation but his wife doesn't, she can bring along a book to read while he fishes.

● Set aside separate places at home for personal things, such as a desk pack for the husband's pipes.

Dr. Kruty explained: "When a person is suffering from too much togetherness in his or her marriage, that person will notice a desire to escape."

To escape the pressures of togetherness, husbands often become workaholics or buy recreational equipment. And women pick clubs and organizations, Dr. Kruty said.

"Lately, more and more women are using alcohol and tranquilizers for escape. Also, surveys indicate women have increased their rate of extramarital affairs," he added.

Said Dr. Dodson: "When we overlook our need for being separate and don't handle about it, we create trouble. When one partner feels forced to be with the other, sooner or later that couple is going to have a big fight."

Teen drops dead — taking killer math test!

He crammed for months day and night for hell exam

By DICK DONOVAN

Ambitious teenager Yoichi Machimoto slumped over his desk as dead as a doornail — while taking a daylong "killer" math exam at Japan's top university!

The would-be law student was making his second attempt at passing the brain-boggling exam that might make him one of the honored few accepted at Tokyo's famed Todai University.

"He was a good boy who wanted to bring honor to his family," Yoichi's anguished father Akira said. "He felt very ashamed because he failed the examination last year. He was determined he would not fail again. The day before the

HUNGRY GHOST EATS WOMAN OUT OF HOUSE & HOME

By REBECCA SPALDING

Bewildered mom Maureen Beardsley is being eaten out of house and home — by a sandwich-gobbling old ghost!

She says the famished phantom filches as much of her food for his midnight feasts that she may have to move to another apartment.

"I'm not afraid. I just can't afford to go on feeding him," the harried housewife told the City Council of Coleraine, England. "He never comes around except to eat, but he does plenty of that."

And clergyman Calvin Ormsby backs Maureen's tale of the ectoplasmic spook.

"There is an otherworldly presence in that place, apparently the spirit of an elderly man who died there, and I have seen it with my own eyes," the minister said.

"As strange as it seems, he apparently has a very large appetite."

Maureen said the eerie intruder first appeared in her bedroom 10 months ago.

"It was about midnight and I had just gone to bed when suddenly this gray, wispy figure was standing over me," the desperate divorcee recalled.

"He gave me quite a start because I knew in an instant he was a ghost. But he was not as terrifying as you might think because he was such a pitiful, sad-eyed old man, all hunched over and crippled up.

"He started wailing, 'I'm hungry.' And believe it or not, I fixed him a snack. It just seemed like the right thing to do.

"He said, 'Thank you, I'm Dennis.' Then he ate his food and vanished."

When doddering Dennis came begging and whining for more munchies the next night, Maureen turned him down flat.

"I told him to go away and he did, but in the morning I found about half my food missing," she said.

And the grateful ghost has been raiding her refrigerator several times a week since.

"It keeps every time we stock up on food, Dennis eats it all up."

The frustrated lady asked the City Council to find a new, spook-free home for her and her daughter Sally.

A medical expert has a suggestion for ensuring that doctors treat patients courteously — tip them like waiters!

Edmund Erde of the New Jersey University of Medicine and Dentistry wrote in a recent issue of Annals of Internal Medicine that doctors would quickly change their ways if they watched exactly for tips.

Erde's plan calls for patients to fill out forms anonymously after each doctor's visit. The doctor's salary would be largely based on how the patients rate him.

They're NOT TWINS — they AREN'T EVEN RELATED!

Kansas City man meets his double in a bookstore!

"IT WAS like looking in a mirror," said John Toler, above, when he first saw Emile Magis

EMILE Magis got more than he expected when he moved to America last year.

By ROLAND GAGON

Emile Magis and John Toler look like identical twins but they aren't even remotely related!

After they bumped into each other in a bookstore in Kansas City the men also learned that their lives are amazingly similar in other ways, including the fact that both have:

- Blonde wives named Mary.
- Four boys ages 7, 9, 10 and 12.
- Jobs in the banking industry.
- Stamp and coin collections.
- Egg-shaped birthmarks on their left shoulders.
- Vacation homes on the North Carolina coastline.

To top it off, both men were amateur boxers, drive 1968 MG convertibles and prefer Mercuries found in any other.

"Emile and I are exact duplicates even though we weren't related and were actually born on different sides of the Atlantic," said Toler, who at 37 is two years older than his 35-year-old double.

"Emile comes from Brussels, Belgium, and I'm a native of Kansas City," he continued.

"Neither of us was adopted so we couldn't possibly be twins who were separated at birth. But just look at us — we're cut from the same mold."

Magis and Toler were perfect strangers until January 25. That's when they came face-to-face while shopping for earth but it was still like bumping into a mirror," said Magis, who moved from Brussels to Kansas City late last year.

"I looked John in the eyes and said something like, 'I think I'm seeing things.' He said, 'I know this sounds crazy, but are you my double?'"

The men exchanged telephone numbers and agreed to stay in touch while they questioned relatives and checked family trees to see if they might possibly be related.

As it turned out they don't share a single common ancestor.

Their appearance, as Magis put it, "is simply a fluke of nature."

"John and I have become friends since we met in the bookstore but the whole situation is still pretty eerie," he said.

By RICK TRACY

The mysterious man in the vampire costume was the hit of the party until three people were later found dead — their bodies drained dry of blood.

"He looked just like Count Dracula in the movies," said stumped Sheila Rathy. "No wonder his fangs looked so real. They were."

The three victims were pretty young women who had danced with the Count several times at the party in upstate New York. All had obvious teeth marks on their necks.

"Someone — or something — drained all the blood from the bodies," said a gypsies eye hired by the family of one victim. "I feel like I'm investigating an old Dracula movie."

Shocked party-goers recalled the mysterious stranger was a regular Don Juan on the dance floor, dancing with at least a dozen damsel partners.

"We knew now he was just saving them up for lunch," said party host Dennis Rasmussen.

Annette Perez was one of those who danced with the creepy Count and loved to tell about it.

"We were dancing cheek to cheek and he gently kissed me on the neck," she said. "I was startled but not frightened until I looked into his eyes. They were glassy and unreal."

Apparently no one at the party knew the costumed vampire. "I guess we all thought he was the guest of another guest," Rasmussen said.

Police said the three young victims — all pretty and in their 20s — appeared to have been bitten on the left side of their neck. The teeth marks were obvious, said one cop.

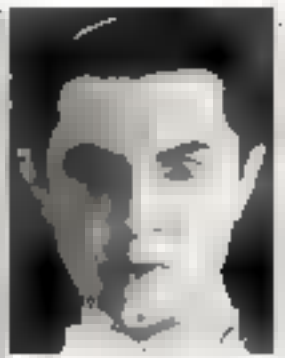
The bodies were discovered by a flower garden behind a bedroom on the grounds of the Rasmussen estate. "They were lying side by side on their backs as if they were sleeping," said a detective.

Police have issued an appeal for the costumed stranger. "He seems to have vanished into thin air," said a police spokesman.

Police described the vampire suspect as about 6-foot-3 and 200 pounds with dark hair.

"We asked several people to describe his eyes and we got several descriptions. One woman described them as human eyes, pale," said an investigator.

"We're just to sit this out before he gets hungry for blood again."



HE looked like Dracula.

Looking at things from the sunny side can help you live a long and healthy life, an expert says.

University of Pennsylvania psychologist Martin Seligman says optimists do better than pessimists on the job and in school, athletics and politics. They live longer and are healthier, too, he says.

"Pessimists see the bad things that befall them as permanent, pervasive and caused by their own ineptitude," says Seligman, author of the book Learned Optimism. "They often give up and slide into depression."

Huge talking spiders kill two scientists!

A team of American botanists just five members and abandoned their field camp after they were attacked and savaged by a horrifying new species — a horde of talking spiders!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

The expedition into the Amazon jungle reports that at least a thousand five-inch spiders began attacking the scientists as they were gathering plant samples near Soraura, Colombia. The previously unknown type of spider is highly poisonous. They killed a 43-year-old biologist and his 28-year-old assistant with their bites.

"The most extraordinary thing about the spiders was that they definitely communicated with sounds and words," said Dr. Gilbert Thomas in dispatches to the Puerto Carreno newspaper, Diario del Tiempo. "They attacked us in an organized fashion, like an army of eight-legged fiends.

"We heard the things squeaking and muttering, and then they would all respond as one. They were a deep red color and their poison caused horrible suffering, making it impossible for the victim to breathe. We're fortunate that 14 of us got out safely without being bitten."

According to news reports, Dr. Thomas and 13 members of his team left their base camp for a trek into the Amazon forest collecting rare plant specimens and hunting for medicinal herbs. They had traveled about 30 miles through the dense undergrowth when they spotted a grove of new plant species and stopped to gather them. Suddenly they heard screaming, reading from the trees above them and looked up to see at least a thousand large spiders swarming down on them, Dr. Thomas said.

"We realized that the noises were coming from the spiders and that they were using a language of some kind," the botanist said.

As the scientists ran for their lives, two members of the team fell behind and died under a writhing mass of spiders. The others left equipment and specimens behind in a desperate bid to escape.

After word of the scientists' experience reached Colombian authorities a military force was sent into the area to investigate and photograph the spiders.

The new species has been named the Red Devil or Diablo Rojo, Dr. Thomas said.

"We hope they will be able to capture one of the spiders and bring it back for study," the 57-year-old Indiana botanist said.

Horn-honking teens kidnapped

An angry mom was accused of kidnapping two horn-honking teens and giving them a horrifying ride they'll never forget.

Two minutes of teens had been driving by the mom's home in North Baltimore, N.Y., at midnight for more than a month, honking their horns.

One night he and a friend chased the teens, caught them and terrorized them at gunpoint before setting them free.

Cops in Hempstead later charged Charlaine Lewis, 41, and Marie Cluett, 36, with kidnapping and assault.

Baby pops out onto delivery room floor

A newborn baby boy escaped serious injury when he came out of his mother's womb at a hospital and tumbled off the birthing table.

"I simply remember being glad he was out of me. Then it clicked that there was no one there to catch him," said the child's mother, Sarah Sylvester, 24.

The infant suffered a slight head cut and was released from a hospital in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, with his mom five days later.

Amazing descriptions of heaven — from kids who've been there!

A little girl who lay clinically dead for days awoke and gave doctors a [illegible]ption of her visit to [illegible] — a beautiful place where she'd met Jesus and even sat on His lap.

The 5-year-old drowning victim is one of countless children who've recounted startlingly similar tales of the hereafter — and provided stunning proof of life after death.

'I SAT ON JESUS' LAP!'

"These youngsters have all been clinically dead. They've all had a glimpse of heaven and made a conscious decision to return to life," said Seattle pediatrician Dr. Melvin Morse, who has studied the life-after-death recollections of numerous children.

Dr. Morse said the accounts of young people who've "died" and come back are especially important because kids are less likely to be influenced by notions of what heaven should be like.

The doctor said the little girl who lay lifeless for three days after a swimming mishap awoke and told him, "Heaven is fun."

She said that she had been led into heaven by a golden-haired woman named Elizabeth and taken to Jesus, who put her on His lap, Dr. Morse said.

"Jesus asked her, 'Do you want to go back and see your mother?' and she said yes — and that's when she came out of the coma," Dr. Morse said.

A little boy awoke after laying clinically dead and told his parents, "I was climbing a stairway up to heaven."

But the boy's youngest brother had recently died, so he decided to return to be with his family, he told Dr. Morse.

"Many of the youngsters tell of being on stairways or in long tunnels, heading for someplace special," the researcher said.

Other children in Dr. Morse's study include:

● An 11-year-old boy whose heart stopped beating in the lobby of a Seattle children's hospital.

"He said he heard a whooshing sound and suddenly found himself floating to the ceiling, where he could see the doctors and nurses working over his body," Dr. Morse said.

"He accurately described what went on in that room and identified who was in the room even though he was in cardiac arrest."

● A 6-year-old boy who suffered cardiac arrest on the operating table also found himself on a tunnel [illegible] body sucked back into my body."

● A 10-year-old boy whose heart suddenly stopped beating and he remembers traveling down a tunnel with bright lights flashing all around him.

"I don't know where I was going, but knew I really wanted to get to the end of that tunnel," he said.

● A 6-year-old boy who suffered cardiac arrest on the operating table also found himself on a tunnel.

A recent study reveals that women who take estrogen after menopause may increase their life span.

The hormone is already known to protect against heart disease and according to Sharon Rose of the University of Southern California Medical School, estrogen adds at least another year of life to those women who take it.

However, estrogen is not recommended for women with a family history of breast cancer.

Alabama couple describes history's first interstellar wedding

We were married on a UFO!

SPACE aliens kidnapped Sandy Horner and Thomas Hanna from their parked car and ordered them to participate in a bizarre wedding ceremony aboard a craft like the one in the picture Tom's holding. "We don't know much about one another yet, but we definitely feel married," says Sandy.

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Sandy Horner and Thomas Hanna were kidnapped by space aliens — and forced to tie the knot aboard an alien starship!

The Alabama couple say they were on their second date when a giant spaceship swooped down beside their parked car and whisked them away to outer space. They say the captain of the alien spacecraft ordered them to participate in a bizarre ceremony after which he pronounced them "a biological unit."

"He communicated to us by mental telepathy, and it was pretty clear what he was doing," said Sandy, 19. "He was marrying us and he told us we should never part.

"We don't know each other too well, but we feel like we were [illegible]. We figure we'll just go ahead and have a civil ceremony to make it legal — but as far as we're concerned, we're married already."

According to Sandy and Thomas, 21, the weird space abduction occurred sometime on the night of January 22. The two had gone out to dinner, then parked on a deserted road not far from Sandy's home to talk and listen to the radio. In an instant, the peaceful night was over.

Thomas remembers seeing a sudden burst of light, then losing consciousness. Sandy recalls a blinding white light, too. Then remembers drifting up towards its source. Whatever happened, the couple believe they were abducted and woke up inside an alien spaceship.

"I remember lying on a lab table hooked up to instruments with wires and things coming out of my body," Sandy told a reporter for the French UFO publication Space Venture. "I was wide awake and felt no pain and these strange gray-skinned little men were checking me out."

The young couple say they remember being separated from the lab machines and brought before a tall shadowy person with light green skin and a smooth hairless body [illegible] he the captain of the spacecraft — explained to them that they were on an alien spaceship and were being studied for scientific reasons.

He then asked them to kneel before him and recited strange words over them, sprinkling a sparkling dust on their heads. Afterward he told them they were "biologically united."

"He said we should produce and our union was permanent and that we should remain together always. Then he said that he was sending us home.

"We were taken back to the lab tables and given some sort of injection. When we woke up again we were in our car and four hours had passed that we couldn't account for."

The two young people told their story to friends, but they [illegible] easily — even though a clearly visible burn spot marks the place where the spaceship landed.

"Did she really believe our story, too? Tom and I are sure of what we went through," says Sandy, who plans to marry Thomas two weeks from now. "The beings in that craft were friendly and gentle — and for some reasons they

WHAT EVERY PARENT MUST KNOW . . .

How to tell if your son is GAY!

Your son may be turning into a homosexual, but you can nip it in the bud — if you learn the seven ways to tell if your kid is gay!

By checking how he dresses, what his favorite colors are and what he reads, among other things, you can detect the subtle signs of limp-wristed tendencies and make your boy into a he-man before it's too late!

"I never thought my boy was in danger until I took a close look at him one day and realized he was listening to classical music," says sociology professor Norm Godwin, who devised the seven-sign checklist. "After that I became aware that he was wearing girlish colors like pink and powder blue.

"My son denied it, but I knew he was heading toward a strange love life and a future as a hairdresser or ballet dancer. Personally I regard it as tragic."

Dr. Godwin says his experiences helped him isolate the signs that indicate a kid is going gay. He has agreed to share these indicators with WORLD readers in the hope it will help save some innocent boy from becoming queer.

1. Clothing Style: Watch for feminine touches in your son's clothing. Soft, clingy fabrics and pale, girlish colors are definite warning signals that he's hearing his sexual orientation. Shoulderbags or handbags of any kind are disastrous.

2. Hobbies: A boy who hangs out indoors and reads instead of playing ball with the other guys most likely has problems.

Certain periodicals — like Playboy — are okay, but if your son is reading romantic stories, like those from Mad, he's probably teetering on the verge of homosexuality.

3. Friends: Watch out if your son is bringing home "buddies" who wear earrings, tight T-shirts or heavy cosmetics perhaps and oily. And if he's hanging out with male flight attendants and people like that, it's a good indication he's running with a homo crowd.

4. Hobbies: All red-blooded males enjoy sports like baseball football, hockey and basketball. They don't like to prancing or ice-skating. If your kid's indifferent to these sports, or shows more interest in cheerleaders than jocks, he needs help.

5. Music: Normal kids like rock music or country and western tunes. They don't listen to classical pieces or recordings of Liberace.

6. Dating: After the age of 11 or so, boys learn to worship members of the opposite sex and spend a lot of their time thinking about them. If your son usually hangs out with boys and avoids dating, have a little talk with him.

7. Daydreaming: Real guys will tell the people who spend their time getting things done. If your son lies around daydreaming, watch out!

"You don't have to despair if only his sheets wilt — or even all — of these signs," says Dr. Godwin, a British author whose book Helping Homie is widely respected. "But you must take action immediately. I advise getting the boy into some hobby-oriented sports programs."

Fishbergenized fisherman Arne Dolmen was grabbed by a game warden and hustled off to jail — after animal-rights fanatics accused him of cruelty to animals!

The Malmo, Sweden, man was charged under a tough new law that makes it a crime to torture or torment any form of animal life, no matter how lowly.

"It's ridiculous," astonished Arne told reporters after being released on bail. "Some animal lovers came along, saw me putting my worms on the hook and called the cops.

"I love animals too — but this is going too far."

The outraged angler is scheduled to be tried in February and could face up to a year in jail.

Family members play hide-and-seek in bizarre 100-year-old portrait

Fleeting ancestors of Amy Foster mysteriously disappear and reappear from a family portrait painted more than 100 years ago.

By SCOTTY PAIR

"One day Uncle Robert is in the picture and the next day he's gone," says baffled Amy, whose mother gave her the oil painting.

"Aunt Dorothy was missing from the painting yesterday, but as you can see she's back in it today," Amy showed a reporter for her hometown newspaper.

The bizarre painting originally included Amy's great-uncles Lewis, Robert, George and Frank Anderson and their sisters, Caroline and Dorothy.

Six years after the portrait was painted, the two sisters and Frank had a falling-out with the other brothers.

"There was an angry split between them over distribution of their parents' will, and the bad blood existed until they died," Amy said.

At one time or another, all six people in the portrait have disappeared — only to reappear hours or days later.

I know there is no one left to blame them, but I sure wish there's stop. It's unnerving, to say the least," Amy said.

"I never know who is going to be in or out of the painting when I wake up in the morning," she said.

Befuddled Amy has invited art collectors and experts on the supernatural to her home outside of Chicago to examine the painting.

"No one has been able to solve the mystery," she said. "One parapsychologist has posited these ghosts are keeping the flock alive."

Amy has contacted a priest who has promised to bless the painting. "Hopefully he will be able to heal the hard feelings so my dead uncles and aunts can finally rest in peace."

Woman girl John Harvey shows off the perpetual game that won her the title of "Miss Lovely Legs of Great Britain" in a contest organized by Brand's Ginger Wine.

CLUMSY DAUGHTER ATTACKS PARENTS WITH:

- Gun
- ax
- electricity
- baseball bat
- poison
- pantyhose

By JACK ALEXANDER

Carla Gaunney was a clumsy but relentless killer who used poison, electricity, a gun, an ax, a baseball bat and some pantyhose to try to rob out her parents for their money.

When her stubborn mom took too long to die after she bashed in her skull with a baseball bat, the evil daughter strangled her with a pair of pantyhose.

"Mother was having such a hard time dying, I just couldn't stand it," Carla, 31, confessed in cops in London, Tex. "I took a pair of pantyhose and choked her to help her die."

The cranky hungry murderess then attacked her father, Charles Smith, with an ax and almost a gun at his head before he disarmed her and called police.

"She was a very persistent woman. She was in debt and wanted them dead so that she could inherit their life-care farm, home and savings account," said District Attorney Neal Birmingham.

Five months before she strangled her mother, Carla's hanging daughter tried tirelessly to send her adoptive parents to their maker.

Concerning Carla even asked her 8-year-old son, Jeremy, "How am I going to kill these people?" he later told arresting officers.

In videotaped testimony, persevering Carla told cops how she served poisoned milk shakes and poisoned cupcakes to her unsuspecting parents.

"The milkshakes had no effect at all and the cupcakes sent them to the hospital, but no one suspected anything more than food poisoning," Birmingham said.

And the desperate daughter even tried to electrify a door to her parents' house by tying a hot electrical cord to the doorknob, but she said nuts! when her husband Jim had him test the effect with a live chicken. "It made a mess but it didn't hurt the chicken," Jeremy said.

Two weeks before Carla did her mother in, she found a hypocrisy of her parents' home that fooled no one, including the police.

She later admitted to a confession to cops that she faked the break-in as a cover for the planned murders.

On the day Carla murdered her mom, she asked her son if she looked like a witch. "I said no," Jeremy said.

Carla pleaded guilty to her mom's murder and the attempted murder of her father. A judge sentenced her to life in prison on the murder count and 20 years behind bars for the attempt on her dad.

EVIL. Carla Gaunney is led away by the sheriff after the most heinous use baseball bat.

How To Collect Social Security At Any Age

Cash-In on Government Give-Away Programs

(Special) A new book written by a former federal investigator tells how every American can collect their share of the $200 billion that will be handed out this year by Uncle Sam. The book explains how to collect social security before retirement, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, home loans, unemployment, job training, free welfare and food stamps. Here are just a few facts revealed:

- How 17 million Americans, pledging annual age 70, collect monthly social security checks
- How to make the entire family eligible for social security, even your youngest child
- How you may be keeping yourself out of social security benefits
- How almost 1 million children get monthly social security checks
- How to qualify for disability payments (over 1.5 million people collecting but thousands more eligible)
- How to work and still collect social security
- How to find out how much you have paid into Social Security
- How to know when to quit work and start collecting social security
- How to get a lump sum payment
- How to get a $150,000 loan to start your own business (it's straight and the bank tells you exactly how to do it)
- How to collect a $250,000 lump sum for a farm or ranch, including livestock and equipment
- How to collect a $27,000 loan for a mobile home, including lot
- How to collect a $45,000 loan for home improvements
- How students over 5400 a month to attend college, trade school or get on-the-job training
- How to get free medical coverage, including glasses and dental care
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to pay rent, apartment rent, including utilities
- How to get up to a $104,000 cash bonanza loan, even if you are poor and unemployed
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free Federal services.

With the help of this book, many families are now finding it more comfortable overseas.

Although the book "How To Collect Big Dollars From Uncle Sam" could cause thousands of dollars to pass, it is being offered at only $12.95 (plus $2 postage & handling).

FOR WEEK OF
Mon. Mar 4 – Sun. Mar. 10

By Countess Sophia Sabak

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Keep on hanging in there!

All signs indicate that a stressful situation could be resolved in the coming week. Stick to your guns and you should be rewarded.

Your ability to make quick decisions may be tested when a new challenge arises.

Trust your instincts and rely on someone whom in others could look to you.

Stay away from smart alecks. They only like your friendly attentiveness as encouragement.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Pressed with success when a long-good-to-be-over affair may come your way.

Don't be afraid to seek out advice from others before making the commitment you may long for.

Your inside of strength and stability could prove to be important as extra hours a troubled friend turns to you for help during the week.

Go ahead and get involved in the situation.

Your past [redacted] you off with a surp[redacted] week.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

ffffin should be a good week for creative thinking. You have top notch ideas. Go for them!

A run of good fortune could bring you happiness if not guard against taking it for granted.

Unexpected thoughts of a romantic adventure may get your head in the clouds.

But be sure your feet are planted firmly on the ground if an opportunity knocks.

Using the weekend as a recharge-off period may be wise.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Give your best to everything you tackle, and you can bet on the best being returned to you.

The time is drawing near when you could reap the rewards you so richly deserve.

A move up could be just around the corner!

Keep plugging away in support of the things you believe in.

Your natural humanity should overcome all those who oppose you.

Dedicate the weekend as a time for re-establishing old friendships.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Modern soap decisions can always turn sour for you, so choose new ideas this week. They should help you reach your goals.

And pay attention to friendships. They'll generate the warmth you need and give you quick pleasure.

Opportunities for financial success loom over the horizon. You could be in for a lucky streak. Make the most of it.

A source of romantic doubt could be overturned. If [redacted] keep a steady course.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

A quiet period should be about to come to an end. Allow yourself to enjoy the excitement of new fun and challenges.

Let yourself go!

A loving surprise may be in store for singles, perhaps from someone you talk to daily, but only thought of as a buddy.

In happy matters, lay your cards out on the table with your partner.

Spend more time with family members and you'll be pleasantly pleased with the rewards.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

A change may be indicated, so heed the advice of someone in a high position.

This could pay off in big bucks or a better position in life over the next few months.

Strive for a more open-minded approach and don't be afraid to trust.

One of your strong points is a great imagination, but you really haven't been using this asset in a constructive way.

It's high time you gave yourself a break and used this talent.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

You should succeed in avoid through your own mental efforts.

Luck, though helpful, will probably play only a small part in your life this week.

Your tolerance and understanding should be especially appreciated by friends this week.

If called on, be willing to listen to their problems and offer whatever advice you feel necessary.

A short outing may be in the offing. Plan your time wisely and get the most you possibly can out of this.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Slow down! [redacted] be a time for reflection.

Allow yourself a chance to be alone with your thoughts. From this interval you should gain insight to eliminate from your world.

Don't expect too much out of people in the next seven days. Be careful not to confide the secrets of friends and acquaintances as someone may try to harm you as a result.

A happy event may provide hours of enjoyment and memories you can keep for years.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You may see proof of how your friendly nature pays off when you extend a helping hand to someone.

Take this good fortune graciously and accept it as a reward for your good behavior toward those in need.

Somebody may be thinking about you and wishing you'd get in touch. But be careful — contact might bring complications!

A period of excellent health should be coming your way and might to make the next few months an energetic time.

If your birthday is this week . . .

The year ahead should be filled with entertainment and a promise of new things.

Financially you're about sure to find greater ease — possibly through unexpected winnings.

All love relationships should be smooth and settled, and you should take great joy in your loved ones' company.

If you've been seeking a deeper relationship, play it cool. Your time should be coming and rewards are worth waiting for.

Be loving and positive for best results. Don't look back. Your future is great!

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

There may be some personal upheaval in the near future.

Strengthen your heart so that you won't be shook up if it happens.

Don't be tempted to sleep in the bed of anyone betrothed you.

An unfavorable influence could flip the wishes in favor of unimportant with a loved one, but your great willpower will help you rise above it.

The good sense when you deal with money matters, but also enjoy all the free pleasures and companionships you can!

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Keep your eyes peeled for any valuables in the week ahead. You could get lucky!

You may wonder if someone you truly care for wants to resolve problems right now.

Be confident, that person really loves your positive opposite in life.

A close friend or relative may ask you to bail them out of a financial crisis. A quick money fix may not be the solution. They may need more than just cash.

Look for the facts in any endeavors.

Kitty coughs up flaming hair balls

COMBUSTIBLE CAT: Fluffy got into some toxic chemicals — and set her owner's apartment on fire

Pet lover Laura Stevens can't enjoy the company of her cat anymore because the fiery feline keeps coughing up flaming hair balls.

"I've got the only combustible cat in town. Little by little, she was torching my apartment," Laura told firemen who put out three fires in one week.

Fire inspectors believed from the extent that an arsonist was responsible for blazes that ignited kitchen curtains, carpet and sofa cushions in Laura's Detroit-area efficiency.

"They were absolutely right, except I didn't think the finding was my beloved Fluffy," she said.

The 5-year-old paraplegic apparently swallowed some of the toxic chemicals stored in the janitor's room at her apartment complex.

"Like most cats, Fluffy cleans her fur by licking it and a mass of hair forms in her stomach," said veterinarian Dr. Frank Southworth. "Every time the poor little thing coughs up one of these hairballs, the friction from the roughness of her tongue ignites the hair."

"We've pulled her little tummy, but I don't think we got it all," Dr. Southworth added.

Laura came home from work last Monday and found three burn holes in her carpet. "The carpet was still smoldering when I walked in," Laura said.

Three days later, firemen were called to her apartment when a neighbor saw her kitchen curtains on fire.

But Laura had no idea her cat was the culprit until she was watching TV two nights later. "Fluffy looked up at me with her beautiful green eyes and spit a flaming hair ball smack on my lap," she said.

Parents send their kids out to play in $2,000 outfits!

Rich Japanese spoil their kids rotten!

Some Japanese families have grown so filthy rich that fashion-conscious parents are sending their kids out to play in $2,000 designer outfits!

Incredibly, the pampered tots are sporting three-piece tailor-made suits and ensemble-topped handmade dresses just to go to the park. And at the middle-grade level or even wives and dad don't even think. They just toss the clothes in the trash and buy more.

By ANN MUDGETT

"Japanese families have more money than ever and fewer children to spend it on, so they're buying more and more luxury items," said Takashi Fujita, a manager for one of Tokyo's department stores.

"Nothing is too good for those kids. Some parents spend thousands of dollars a month just for their children's clothing."

"It's crazy."

And for really special occasions Japanese toys get all decked out in samurai-style kimonos complete with toy swords or elaborate hand-sculpted hairdos with wig-hats that can cost as much as $2,000 each.

Little girls look just like pipsqueak ladies when they're all dolled up in $2,000 silk kimonos that sweep with 14-carat gold thread.

For pampered tots in Tokyo, the sky's the limit when it comes to dressing them. Many rich Japanese parents are spending thousands of dollars a month to outfit their spoiled kids in fancy duds like the $2,000 samurai kimono at left, and the $2,000 silk kimono at right — as every-day play togs!

He's 38, she's 86 and they've been hitched 13 years!

My wife's old enough to be my grandma

LOVEBIRDS Walt Parker and his 86-year-old sweetie

Playful Walt Parker's pals were aghast when the skirt-chasing, 25-year-old seaman tied the knot with a snaggletoothed, 73-year-old grandma.

But after 13 years of wedded ecstasy, the swinging sweeties insist they've never been happier — and their love life has never been hotter!

. . . but we still make love every single day!

By JOE SIMMS

"My Jane just turned 86, but we still make whoopee every single day," bragged the love-struck sailor. "And when we aren't making whoopee, we're holding hands and smooching up a storm.

"Jane's a very loving lady, and I think she's the most beautiful girl in the world. There isn't a movie star on earth with her eyes, her face or her body.

"Every day I thank God that I was lucky enough to find a woman like her." And cradle-robbing Jane is just as tickled with her fun-loving hubby.

"What a hunk!" gloated the passionate grandma. "I simply can't keep my hands off him, even after all these years.

"We spend all our precious time together kissing and cuddling — and lots of other things that just come naturally, even at my age.

"I call Walter my little Wally-Dolly and he calls me his little plum pudding. He makes me feel like a kid again."

Love-wave Walt, 38, and his silver-haired honey met way back in 1964 when he was 11 and she was a sweet young thing of 59. But the love bug didn't bite until 14 years later.

"We'd been friends for all that time, and then suddenly we realized we were absolutely crazy about each other," the happy hubby told reporters in Anglesey, Wales.

"I'd had more than my share of girlfriends before that, but all at once it dawned on me that Jane was the woman I wanted to spend the rest of my life with.

"I was 25 and she was 73 — but even then she was a beautiful woman. She's the most beautiful girl in the world. There isn't a movie star on earth with her eyes, her face or her body.

"Every day I thank God that I was lucky enough to find a woman like her."

Walt's best chum at something and decided to get even, he said.

"Another nurse walked into the room and saw the poor man struggling to reach the cookie that was taped about two inches out of his reach," said the spokesman.

The cookie was armed with the patient's lunch as dessert. "His treat turned into a taunt," said the spokesman.

A licensed practical nurse, Miss Frederick was fired from the vets' home a few weeks after the heartless incident.

The Iowa Board of Nursing later suspended Frederick's license after he wrote them a letter admitting the cookie caper.

His suspension is for 90 days followed by 21 months probation.

He was accused of unethical conduct and for being intoxicated.

Vets' hospital fires nurse over cruel cookie caper

A ruthhearted nurse played a mean trick on a disabled war veteran by taping a chocolate chip cookie to the overhead bar on his hospital bed — just out of the hungry old man's reach.

"It was a cruel, cruel thing to do to someone who has been injured serving their country," said a spokesman for the Iowa Veterans Home in Marshalltown, Iowa.

Apparently the male nurse got tired of observing the old guy's best chum at something and decided to get even, he said.

"Another nurse walked into the room and saw the poor man struggling to reach the cookie that was taped about two inches out of his reach," said the spokesman.

Love-wave Walt, 38, and his silver-haired honey met way back in 1964 when he was 11 and she was a sweet young thing of 59. But the love bug didn't bite until 14 years later.

"We've been friends for all that time, and then suddenly we realized we were absolutely crazy about each other," the happy hubby told reporters in Anglesey, Wales.

"I'd had more than my share of girlfriends before that, but all at once it dawned on me that Jane was the woman I wanted to spend the rest of my life with.

"I was 25 and she was 73 — but even after all these years.

"We spend all our precious time together kissing and cuddling — and lots of other things that just come naturally, even at my age.

"I call Walter my little Wally-Dolly and he calls me his little plum pudding. He makes me feel like a kid again."

Bad news for workaholics

— you're wasting your time!

By DICK DONOVAN

Here's some bad news for workaholics who think they're worth their weight in gold — forget it — you really aren't worth a boot!

Experts say employees who work too much or toil under the strain of a workaholic boss will, in the long run, be less rather than more productive.

They believe the true workaholic — who overworks out of compulsion or addiction rather than enjoyment — is wrong in thinking his or her long hours help the company.

"The premium that a workaholic manager puts on himself is going in either down to his employees," explained John Sommers, the 36-year-old head of The Custom Shop, a retail outlet in Baltimore, Md., specializing in custom-made shirts.

"And that in turn cuts into the productivity of those who work for or with him."

Typical workaholics are described as driven individuals with a compulsion or addiction for work. They can't shift over to relaxation or recreation without feeling guilty.

"In the short run and the long run, workaholics prove to be more of a liability than an asset," Maryland-based consultant Judy Johns said.

"They're so stressed, tired and bogged down in the day-to-day nits and nats that they no longer see the big picture."

Exploiting workaholics to drive a company through hard times can prove to be a mistake, Miss Johns warns. "Their effectiveness decreases over time, and they often burn out when needed most."

BIZARRE ANIMAL ODDITIES

Did you know elephants are one of the few species that live in herds led by females? Mother bears carry their young by putting the cub's whole head in their mouths? Some shrimp and oysters can change from male to female and back again?

These are just a few of the many bizarre animal oddities uncovered in Desmond Morris' fascinating new book, Animal watching (Crown). Others include:

◆ In order to play dead, the West Indian wood snake can release blood into its eyes and force blood from its mouth.

◆ The most poisonous animals in the world are tiny, 2-inch South American kokoi frogs. One ounce of toxin from these "poison dart" frogs can kill 2.3 million people.

◆ The largest recorded lobster ever had an estimated 100 million offspring.

AMAZING!

Spoiled brat calls cops on mom!

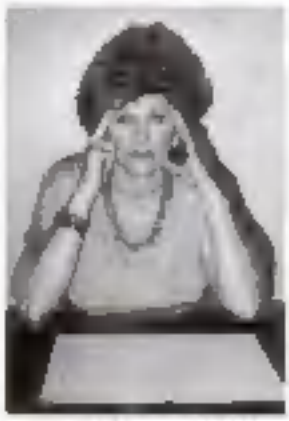
Feisty 3-year-old Sara Green pitched a fit and called the cops to her home — because her mom told her she couldn't wear her purple and green sneakers to kindergarten!

The minute her mom Jean left for work, the spunky tot [illegible] ty. "We had no idea what was going on," said dispatcher Carol Fink. "All we could hear was this little girl crying her eyes out."

Immediately dispatched two squad cars to the girl's home to find out what the problem was but by the time they got there she was gone.

As luck would have it, little Sara had gotten over her fit and trotted off to school — wearing her colorful sneakers.

PSYCHIC CREATES OBJECTS OUT OF THIN AIR!



SIGHTLESS Margaret Schultz clears her mind of all thought and concentrates on blank paper placed in front of her.

By TOM ALLEN

Blind psychic Margaret Schultz puts images on photo paper with the power of her mind alone. She then takes the process a step further — and makes the objects materialize in her hand!

"This is more than mind over matter — this is mind over reality," declared Dr. Phillip Bresler, the paranormal researcher from Chicago.

"There are plenty of psychics who can put images on film or photo paper by projecting a mental image but this woman beats them by a country mile.

"She actually makes the object of her imagination appear out of thin air. And don't forget that she's been blind since birth — the objects she creates, she's never seen."

AS HER mind pictures a desired object, an image begins to appear on the special paper.

At a recent demonstration in Los Angeles, Miss Schultz projected the image of a ball onto photo paper and then pulled a rubber ball right off the page.

She has reportedly done the same with numerous small objects, including balls, crutches and rings, since she was 13.

"My powers are a blessed gift from our Creator and all glory belongs to Him," said the 44-year-old woman from Minneapolis. "I merely clear my mind of thoughts and distractions and imagine that I'm focusing my psychic energies onto the head of a pin.

"As an image begins to form in my mind's eye I lay my hands on the photo paper and release the energy through my fingertips.

"When the image is fully formed I feel a sharp pain in my stomach.

"That's when the picture on the paper materializes in my hand."

Miss Schultz has been examined by doctors of every description but none of them have ever been able to figure out where her powers spring from or how they work. "It certainly looks as if Miss Schultz can create something from nothing, but that flies in the face of everything we know about physics," said Dr. Bresler. "What she does is truly miraculous."

WITHIN seconds the image on the paper grows to whatever she's determined in her mind.

THE BLIND psychic places her energy-filled hands over the image appearing on the photographic paper, and . . .

. . . PRESTO! Image is transformed into a three-dimensional object as she lifts the item up from the sheet.

PROUD Margaret triumphantly holds up ball created through her mind power!
